DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-19, drawn to a plurality of processing in and expressor chambers, classified in class 417, subclass 473.
  - II. Claims 20-22, drawn to a continuous flow centrifuge, classified in class 494, subclass 45.
  - III. Claims 23-25, drawn to a fluid connector, classified in class 285, subclass 124.5.
  - IV. Claims 26-34, drawn to a method of independently and simultaneously processing a plurality of samples in a centrifuge, classified in class 494, subclass 37.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination does not require "central hubs constructed and arranged to define passages". The subcombination has separate utility such as pumping fluid in a static situation unrelated to centrifuging.

Art Unit: 1723

3. Inventions I and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, the connector (III) has separate utility such as connecting elongated tubes, rather than processing and expressor chambers, or connecting chambers which do not have axial openings. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

4. Inventions I and IV are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the apparatus could be used to pump fluid in a static situation unrelated to centrifuging. Also, the apparatus could be used to process a single "sample" in multiple stages by passing it serially through a plurality of the chambers.

5. Inventions II and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, the connector (III) has separate utility such as connecting elongated tubes, rather than processing and expressor chambers, or connecting chambers which do not have axial openings. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

6. Inventions II and IV are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the apparatus could be used to process a single "sample" in multiple stages by passing it serially through a plurality of the chambers.

7. Inventions III and IV are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In the instant case, the connector (III) is not referred to at all in the method claims. In the instant case, the connector (III) has separate utility such as connecting elongated tubes, rather than processing and expressor chambers, or connecting chambers which do not have axial openings.

8. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

9. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for each Group is different, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

10. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

11. A request for an oral election to the above restriction requirement was not made due to the complexity of the requirement.

Art Unit: 1723

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

12. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
